Don't miss the high steaks dining at Ohio's Rennick Meat Market

Erie Times-News \(Erie, PA\)

Byline: Jennie Geisler Hutchison

April 09--Since opening in June, Rennick Meat Market has added to the considerable charm of Ashtabula Harbor. If you haven't been, go, and plan for dinner at Rennick. Then go back. I want this place to make it.

We started with Piggyback Dates from the "Bits" menu, which included tiny appetizers designed to arrive in moments. The scrumptious dates wrapped in bacon hit the spot. Then my husband, John, ordered Beet & Prosciutto Salad from the "Smaller" menu and ate it all himself. I assume it was good. I wasn't offered a bite.

The former butcher shop specializes in dry-aged steak, which isn't normally my thing. It's usually my husband ordering the New York strip while I opt for fish or pasta. Rennick does offer alternatives, including roast chicken, grilled trout, shortribs and burgers, but I figured if I was going to review a steak place, I should try the steak.

It was a revelation. My melting rib-eye with truffle butter changed my outlook on red meat for just about ever.

I also ordered an arugula salad, which was substantial and came coated simply in lemon juice, olive oil, salt and pepper. I devoured every last leaf. ...
